The collaboration shall also include conducting Faculty and Management Development programs across various domains.
4. The parties wish to enter into this Agreement to define certain parameters of their future obligations and are bound by a duty of Confidentiality with respect to their sources and contacts.
5. In the course of discussions, each Party may disclose to the other Party Confidential Information (as that term is defined hereafter). The Parties intend that this Confidential Information shall not be divulged, published or reproduced before any third party unless absolutely necessary and with the prior written approval of the other Party in accordance with the terms of this Agreement.
6. The Parties (as that term is defined hereafter) wish to ensure that Confidential Information so disclosed to the Recipient remains confidential under the terms of this Agreement.

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the foregoing, the covenants and conditions herein contained and other good and valuable consideration, the receipt of which is hereby acknowledged, the parties hereto covenant and agree as follows:

1. DEFINITIONS

"Confidential Information" means any and all technical and non-technical information provided by either Party to the other, whether conveyed orally, in writing, or otherwise (whether or not designated as "Confidential Information"), including but not limited to (a) patent and patent applications, (b) client information, (c) trade secrets, and (d) proprietary information, ideas, techniques, sketches, drawings, work of authorship, models, inventions, know-how, processes, apparatuses, equipment, algorithms, software programs, software source documents, and formulae related to the current, future, and proposed products and services of each of the Parties, and including, without limitation, their respective Information concerning research, experimental work, development, design details and specifications, engineering, financial or business information, procurement acquirements, purchasing, manufacturing, customer lists, investors, employees, business and contractual relationships (actual or prospective), business forecasts, sales and merchandising, marketing plans and Information the disclosing Party provides regarding third parties.

Any information derived from the above, and all information designated as confidential or which ought reasonably to be considered confidential or that is not readily available to the public shall be considered as Confidential Information and, therefore, within the scope of this Agreement, unless specified otherwise in writing.

"Party" or "Parties" means either or both of TC BIR and/or the Institution as the context requires.

"Recipient" is the Party to whom Confidential Information is/was disclosed

2. CONFIDENTIALITY

- 2.1 Each Party shall at all times and notwithstanding any termination of this Agreement hold in strict confidence using no less care than it takes to secure the confidentiality of its own confidential information and not disclose to any third party Confidential Information of the other Party, except as approved in writing by the other Party, and will use the Confidential Information for no purpose other than evaluating or pursuing a business opportunity with the other Party. Each Party shall only permit access to Confidential Information of the other Party to those of its employees, contractors or authorised representatives having a need to know and who have signed confidentiality agreements or are otherwise bound by confidentiality obligations at least equivalent to those contained herein.
- 2.2 The Parties agree that damages may not be an adequate remedy for any breach of this Agreement by either Party or any of their employees, agents or contractors and the Parties shall be entitled to obtain any legal and/or equitable relief, including injunctive relief, in the event of any breach of this Agreement.
- 2.3 The Parties will not make any commercial use of the Confidential Information or use the same for the benefit of self or of any third party other than pursuant to this Agreement.
- 2.4 In the event of the breach of contract on any of the obligations, Parties shall forthwith return all the Confidential Information in possession or under control and all documents and other material containing Confidential Information, together with all copies thereof, and destroy any and all analyses, compilations, studies and other documents or material prepared which reflect or are generated from any Confidential Information.
- 2.5 Both the Parties represent and warrant to each other that each Party has the right and authority to disclose the Confidential Information to other Party and that they are not a party to any agreement or under any obligation to any third party which would prevent either Party from entering into this Agreement and complying with the terms and conditions as set forth herein.
- 2.6 Notwithstanding anything contained herein the restriction on use and disclosure set out above shall not apply to any Confidential Information which.
 - (a) at the date of its disclosure is public knowledge or which subsequently becomes public knowledge other than by way of a breach of the terms of this Agreement; or
 - (b) was available to the other Party prior to its disclosure under the terms of this Agreement or thereafter becomes known to it prior to or subsequent to such disclosure without restrictions from a source other than the Party disclosing such Confidential Information, as evidenced by the records; or
 - (c) is required to be disclosed by way of an action or order of a court of competent jurisdiction or of any requirement of legal process, law or governmental order, decree, regulation or rule, provided that the Recipient provides the other Party with prior written notice of such information so that the disclosing Party may have an opportunity to prevent the disclosure through appropriate legal means,

- (c) is required to be disclosed by either of the Party to any outside consultant or advisers or any other person if such Party in its absolute discretion considers such disclosure to be appropriate and necessary to enable the other Party to consider and evaluate the Confidential Information and/or to protect the interest of the Parties while evaluating the Transaction;
 - (d) which must be disclosed to insurers and professional advisers.
- 2.7 For the whole term of this Agreement and a subsequent period of 1 year, neither Party shall directly or indirectly contact any clients of the other Party in the view of conducting business with them in a field that the other Party is already dealing with such client.
